Personal Portfolio

Blog Integration

We are using a blogging platform called Ghost. It's fairly new, and many features are pending, however it is still elegant and straightforward. Hosting Ghost with Heroku is coming, but it is not yet supported. Because of that, we're using Ghost's hosted service. Think of a name for your blog of the form blogname.ghost.io. We'll create your blog using the Dojo Dev Camp Ghost account, which you will then administer from blogname.ghost.io/ghost/signup/.

Create a link from your portfolio to this blog and ensure that you consistently update it. We recommend that you set aside a few times per week to create a new post. This will allow you to catalog your experiences, as well as demonstrate your progress. Use this blog to discuss the things you've learned, and the projects that you're building. A strong blog can become a critical component of your portfolio, showcasing your ability to learn and communicate effectively.
